

CELEBRATING MY CULTURE IS BEAUTIFUL 365

with Dr. Ndidi Nwamu-Laguerre

Congratulations to our 2019 Women of Kulture 365 Honoree, Dr. Ndidi Nwamu-Laguerre, a first generation Nigerian NG - American us. She is daughter to Obi Igwe (King) Chief Dr P.I. Nwamu, the Odogwu of Asaba & Obi Nwanye Mrs. Grace Nwamu. The eldest daughter of six children, she herself is the youngest female chief in Asaba Delta State, Nigeria. Enyi AdaObi (translated to Chief Elephant King's first daughter) is her title name among the illustrious Otu Odu Ahaba Enyi Ivory Society.

Enyi AdaObi is a physician specializing in Nephrology (kidneys). She has a private practice named Delta Kidney and Hypertension based in Orlando, Florida, which strives on quality kidney care. She completed her residency at Columbia University College of Physicians, Stamford and went on to a fellowship at University of Medicine and Dentistry New Jersey (UMDNJ). She also has a Master's in Business Administration (MBA) from New York Institute of Technology, (NYIT), Long Island.

As part of her philanthropic achievements, she continuously gives back to her communities both here and abroad. In the USA, she routinely participates in events like the Caribbean Health Summit, Tom Joyner's Take a Loved One To The Doctor Day, Men's Health Summit, just to name a few. Internationally, she is the Founder of World Friendly Organization (Nigeria) that provides free health screens & prevention education. Dr. Laguerre is also a Co-Founder of the "Pink Party" for the Orlando Chapter that promotes Breast Cancer Education & Screening and raises money to support breast cancer patients during Breast Cancer Awareness Month (October).

Dr. Nwamu-Laguerre is an associate professor at the University of Central Florida Medical School. She has taught oversees in Africa & the Caribbean. She is an established medical director here in Orlando, as well as having a private medical practice.

On top of all of that, as a Women of Kulture, she still finds time to be a dedicated wife, mother, daughter, sister and friend. She is deeply rooted in her spirituality and is all about uplifting, propelling and being an example of possibilities. She endorses giving thanks and praise to the Most High at all times and looks forward to continuing sharing her God given talents.

Dr. Ndidi Nwamu-Laguerre website: <http://deltakidneyandhypertension.com>

Facebook: Delta Kidney & Hypertension

IG: @deltakidneyandhypertension